apparent to all school personnel today is the inability of many pupils in the elementary and high schools and even in the college to master graded subject material the recognition of such a problem is reflected in the many remedial programs now being used particularly in reading emphasis is now being placed on prevention instead of correction and consequently such attention is being directed to the primary grades to locate the difficulty recognition of need for a contemporary measure of school readiness has prompted the development of this study the test with its new format contemporary terms and more inclusive approach has been designed to meet the needs of the mid twentieth century kindergarten and first grade child to construct a test similar in design and purpose to those already available would be merely a duplication of effort it is the purpose of this study to demonstrate the effectiveness of the contemporary school readiness test as a measure of school readiness at this period of educational history in the development of such a test the accepted criteria for tests of pre school children have been recognized such a list was developed by stutsman in his treatment of the problem in mental measurement of pre school children since readiness tests are similar in design and purpose to mental tests stutsman s criteria should serve as an adequate guide to the development of readiness tests a the test material should have an inherent interest for the child b a large variety of activities and abilities should be tested with low inter correlations between the tests c there should be variations in difficulty of the test items to such an extent that the dullest child can pass the easiest one and the brightest child will fail the most difficult d simplicity of material is an asset e tests should be easy to administer f the method of scoring should be objective eliminating subjective judgment as far as possible g the test items should show a marked differentiation between the groups with different capacities h the score received on the tests should show a high correlation with a criterion test given some time after administration of the aptitude test i the selection of cases should be as near a sampling of the whole community as possible j the final test must be easy to score the writer has applied these criteria to the construction of the test which forms the subject of this study this book focuses on early childhood education which spans the human life from birth to age 8 infants and toddlers experience life more holistically than any other age group social emotional cognitive language and physical lessons are not learned separately by very young children adults who are most helpful to young children interact in ways that understand that the child is learning from the whole experience not just that part of the experience to which the adult gives attention although early childhood education does not have to occur in the absence of the parent or primary caregiver this term is sometimes used to denote education by someone other than these the parent or primary caregiver both research in the field and early childhood educators view the parents as an integral part of the early childhood education process early childhood education takes many forms depending on the theoretical and educational beliefs of the educator or parent other terms that is often used interchangeably with early childhood education are early childhood learning early care and early education much of the first two years of life are spent in the creation of a child s first sense of self or the building of a first identity because this is a crucial part of children s makeup how they first see themselves how they think they should function how they expect others to function in relation to them early care must ensure that in addition to carefully selected and trained caregivers links with family home culture and home language are a central part of program policy if care becomes a substitute for rather than a support of family children may develop a less than positive sense of who they are and where they come from because of their child care experience
